Scenario: As a young teacher, you are struggling to find a good system to store your favorite novel's quotes and have downloaded an app from the app store to find out if audiobook highlighting is the answer to your prayers.

Task 1: Begin a book you enjoy, create a highlight, name it, save it to its proper genre, and give it a fitting description.

Task 2: Locate the community highlights and add a comment on one.

Task 3: You dislike the bounds of the highlight you created earlier and have decided to alter them, do so without creating a new highlight.

Notes:

Things to change:
➢ Give option to add description when first creating highlight opposed to only being able to by editing an existing one.
➢ Add a back button instead of only using a home button.
➢ Need to add ability to see recently created highlights in other places than only the recently created folder.

Things to keep:
➢ The home button does remain to be very useful however.
➢ The social/community section worked very well and engaged users.
➢ The ability to change where a highlight stops and stars